MURDER MYSTERY IN WOMAN'S DEATH

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, June 29.—Baffled by the strangest homicide mystery in years in the death of Mrs. Grace Fox, wife of the manager of a National Cash Register branch store, Coroner's physician Otto Schultze today contradicted Inspector Faurot's theory of suicide by declaring that the 20 stab wounds in the woman's body and back were inflicted by an unidentified person with whom she struggled desperately before loss of blood caused her to collapse. Not a clue to the identity of the slayer has been found and circumstances surrounding the tragedy amaze the investigators from police headquarters and the coroner's office.

Mrs. Fox was found lying in her apartment at 61 West 142nd street after she had telephoned for help, saying she had fallen down and hurt herself. Later on her death bed after the terrible knife wounds had been discovered about her body, she said a book agent had attacked her. Inspector Faurot declared he was convinced that the woman had killed herself. But he refused to state why his activities in the case if he believed she took her own life. The woman's husband and the coroner's physician are positive that she was murdered. Cuts about her hands showed she might have fought with an assailant. No weapon was found about the apartment.

When Mrs. Fox was discovered she was already near death. She was rushed to a hospital, where when questioned by the police, she declared a magazine solicitor had attacked her.

Physicians who made a careful examination of her body insist that some of the wounds she received could not have been inflicted by herself.

The police efforts today were devoted to gathering and sifting every bit of conflicting evidence, weighing one against the other and confessing themselves unable to make a single step of progress.

"A man who said he was a magazine subscription agent"—who had called previously at the apartment and whom she disliked or feared because she "didn't like his looks"—this is the meagre description the police have of the man who may have been the woman's murderer.

If the woman committed suicide, as the police claim, a motive as yet is utterly lacking. So far as the police can learn, she and her husband, who is 50, were devoted to each other and their married life has been unusually happy. Her husband's income permitted him to supply her every want.

HUERTA DENIES ANY EVIL INTENT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
El Paso, Tex., June 29.—Although he persistently denies that his presence upon the Mexican border has any political significance, Gen. Victoriano Huerta, who is under arrest with Gen. Pascual Orozco upon the charge of conspiring to violate the neutrality laws, conferred with many former Mexican Federalists and Federal sympathizers today.

"Only friendly calls," exclaimed General Huerta. "My old friends are glad to see me and I am glad to see them. But I want to repeat that I have no intention of violating American neutrality. I am tired of fighting and revolution. I love peace."

In addition to his visitors, Gen. Huerta also received many telegrams some of which were in cipher.

It is charged by representatives of Gen. Francisco Villa and Gen. Venustiano Carranza that Orozco has been busy for some weeks recruiting idle Mexicans and sending them across the border in small parties. Orozco is also said to have purchased large quantities of arms, ammunition and other war supplies which are stored in warehouses. This information is said to be in possession of U. S. secret service men who are here keeping close watch upon the agents of the numerous Mexican political parties.

Among the recent arrivals here are some of the members of the Cientifico party, followers of Gen. Diaz who fled into this country when Diaz was overthrown by Gen. Madero. All are apparently wealthy residents at the best hotels. They refuse to talk.

U. S. secret service agents are not at all satisfied with the assurance of Huerta that he will make no effort to jump the $15,000 bond. The secret service men shadow the former Mexican dictator and Orozco wherever they go and even follow them out for an motor-cycles when the Mexicans go out for an automobile ride.

Gen. Huerta, becoming plucked by the espionage made complaint to the Federal authorities.

Russian War Office Shake-up.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Petrograd, June 29.—The shake-up of the Russian war office as the result of the recent reverses in Galicia was made complete today with the resignation of General Vernadsky, under-secretary of state for war. He will, however, remain a member of the council of the empire. General Polivanov, who has succeeded General W. A. Soukhomlinoff as secretary of state for war, will probably reduce a number of generals.

TITUS FELTEN, VETERAN FIREMAN

Former Prominent Business Man
Celebrates His Eighty-first Birthday and Relates Reminiscences of Old Washington Steamer Company.

Titus Felten, one of Kingston's best known citizens, celebrated his eighty-first birthday anniversary today.

Mr. Felten was born on June 29, 1834, near the Dutch settlement, seven miles from Saugerties. As a youth he worked in a quarry and in 1853, at the age of 19 years, he came to Kingston.

He began his employment in Kingston as bookkeeper for Peter Van Vliet in Higginsville, which was then one of the prosperous business sections of this vicinity. He remained in that position for six years. After leaving Mr. Van Vliet's employ, Mr. Felten was bookkeeper successively for Louis Deput for two years, Joy Brothers for three years, William C. Thompson for three years and until Mr. Thompson's death, when he settled up his estate; Hayes & Van Nostrand of Wall street and C. & J. S. Burhans, remaining with the latter firm four years.

The Messrs. Burhans at that time were engaged in the coal and lumber business at the corner of Pearl street and Clinton avenue, on the site of the building now occupied by the undertaking firm of A. Carr & Son. The building now occupied by that firm was erected as a residence by the late J. Salisbury Burhans, who died a number of years ago.

In 1871 Mr. Felten formed a co-partnership with the late Cornelius Burhans, under the firm name of Burhans & Felten, and the co-partnership continued for 16 years. The coal and lumber yard occupied the present site of The Kirkland at the corner of Main street and Clinton avenue. After the dissolution of the firm, Mr. Felten was traveling salesman for a Buffalo lumber concern for four years, and then he returned to Kingston and erected a brick building on Broadway between Elmendorf and Downs streets, where he engaged in the fish and oyster business, which he conducted for eight years, selling out his interest at the end of that period to Mr. Lynch of Tannersville. Mr. Felten was connected with the H. W. Palen Company for the five years following and then with Thomas O'Hara in the coal business for eight years, when he retired.

In his younger years Mr. Felten was one of the most active volunteer firemen in the then village of Kingston. For many years he was a member of Washington Engine Company No. 3, whose headquarters were in the present Firemen's Hall on Fair street, occupied at present by Will-vick Hose Company.

Of all the interesting experiences which Washington Engine Company had, Mr. Felten recalls most vividly the work they performed on October 10, 1866, when the old Ulster County House, which was then under the management of DuBois Perrine and Matthew Perrine, was burned.

FIRST AMERICAN SUBMARINE RAISED FOR JUNK.

Holland Submarine 9.

The pictures show the Holland 9, the first successful submarine being raised at the League Island Navy Yard in Philadelphia, before going to the scrap heap. The Holland, which bore the name of its inventor, made several successful trials in the Hackensack river and in the waters around the League Island Navy Yard, about twenty years ago. It will be noticed that the under sea boat here pictured is smaller than the craft of like type today, and very crude in appearance. The famous old boat finally sank after being discarded for the newer types and lay for years, submerged and forgotten. Now it is destined for the scrap heap. The Holland was the first successful submarine of the United States navy and might be termed the father of Uncle Sam's submarine fleet. It was not until after the trials of the Holland that the European nations adopted the submarine as a war craft.

The Ulster County House occupied part of the site of the present Kingston Savings Bank building, and part of the lots adjoining which now belong to the county. The fire swept all the buildings from the corner of Wall and Main streets, where Miss Mary Van Leuven's house now stands, as far as the court house and jail. Washington Engine Company secured its supply of water from a huge cistern which was located where E. T. Steele's store now stands, at the corner of Wall and John streets, and through its efforts the county court house and jail were saved from destruction.

Of the members of old Washington Engine Company, there are twenty-seven survivors. The company was disbanded in the early 70's. The members now living, and their ages as compiled by Mr. Felten, are as follows:

Abram Hendricks, 81; Titus Felten, 81; Charles H. Styles, 80; James Bostwick, 79; Jacob Arnold of Glasgow, 79; Ex-Mayor John Newkirk, 76; George B. Styles, 75; Edward W. Matheson, 73; John Woolsey, 72; John Kearney, 71; George Shultis, 70; Nelson Longyear, 70; Robert Weeks, 68; Garret N. Oliver of Marbletown, 67; C. V. L. Pitts, 67; Jacob Coons, 65; Eugene Winner, 65; O. R. Thompson, 64; Chester Felten of Spokane, Wash., 63; William T. Holt of New York city, 63; Supervisor Charles A. Schermerhorn, 62; Abner D. Holt, 61; George Kraft, 60; J. Augustus Vignes, 60; Isaiah Winn, 60; John Heiser, Cornelius Hume, 59.

NUGGETS OF NEWS.

Events of the Day Told of in Brief
Items by Telegraph.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York—Members of the Women's Peace Party plan an educational peace propaganda for school children and advocate the song "I Didn't Raise my Boy to be a Soldier" as the national anthem.

Wallington, N. J.—Patrolman Reilly, arrested three New Yorkers for playing poker by candle-light in the "wee" hours of the morning at a baseball field here. The trio was released after a lecture.

New York—Police Captain Linden at Coney Island, has announced that girls wearing abbreviated bathing suits are liable to arrest. The man's suit, with the waist hung to the shoulders by four threads is also barred.

Woodbridge, N. J.—Mrs. Mary Kessler was badly burned and her baby flung from her arms when lightning struck her as she stood in her dining room. The baby was not harmed.

Charleston, W. Va.—Game Warden Glenn threatens action against State Prohibition officers who poured whiskey into the Kanawha river, contaminating the stream and killing scores of fish.

The President at Work.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Cornish, N. H., June 29.—Affairs of state, chief of which are the Mexican situation, now complicated by the arrest of General Huerta and the diplomatic negotiations with Germany, prevented President Wilson from playing his usual round of golf this morning. The President was up at 7 and an hour later was hard at work in his library. Secretary of State Lansing is at Amherst and may come here for a conference with the President.

POPE PREPARING WAR DOCUMENT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Rome, June 29.—An important diplomatic document, with reference to the war, is being prepared by Pope Benedict XV it was learned today. It is expected to be announced shortly.

The Pope is showing keenly the strain of the war and the worry imposed by "interventions" attributed to him by various European newspapers.

After his return to his chambers last night after worshipping at the tomb of the Apostle in St. Peter's Cathedral, the Pope was extremely pale and fatigued. Despite his physical exhaustion the Pontiff insisted upon conversing with a number of cardinals upon matters of state.

CORNELL WINS THE BIG RACE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Poughkeepsie, June 29.—Despite the fact that Cornell's crews almost made a clean sweep in the Hudson regatta yesterday afternoon the praises being sung today are for the Leland-Stanford crew. The game fight which these men who traveled over 3,000 miles to participate in the race, made for the premier honors, is the talk of this town today.

Unskilled in the fineness of oarsmanship like the other colleges in the race, the boys from the west furnished the real thrill of the big event. They came through with a rush in the last half mile—they shot their shells along at an amazing speed, but the well trained crew Pop Courtney has developed had a little more reserve in store, and withstood the rush of the western lads. But the honors go to the lads from the golden west. They crossed the line a scant half length behind the Ithacans, but they were the freshest crew in the five that completed in the race.

Their winning rivals almost collapse at the finish; they saw the other three crews behind them practically all in, but the sturdy sons of the west jumped up in their own shell, smiling, slapping each other on the back and showing none of the fatigue that is looked for after such a grueling contest.

They say that the Stanford boys went "in hock" for everything to compete in the regatta. But they need not worry about getting the wherewithal to return home. The lads who were held up to ridicule because of their presumption in trying to defeat the eastern oarsmen, today have more friends than all the other crews combined. They need not ask financial aid to return home. It is theirs without the asking. Everyone loves a game fighter; in any branch of sport and everyone has nothing but praise for the strangers in a strange land.

Syracuse spoiled a clean sweep for the Cornell oarsmen. The freshmen eight from the former college won an easy victory in that contest and spoiled a clean slate for the Ithacans who had previously won the junior varsity contest.

"ON TO WARSAW" THE GERMAN CRY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Petrograd, June 29.—"On to Warsaw" is again the Teutonic battle cry and two stupendous conflicts, one in Poland and the other in Galicia, are brewing as a result of the new effort of the Austro-German armies to launch a fresh drive against the Polish capital.

There has been a great shift of troops, at least 150,000 Austrians being sent into Poland from Galicia to reinforce the army of Field Marshal von Hindenburg that is fighting on the battle line in front of Warsaw, stretching from Pzazyszcz, across the Vistula river to the San.

It is evidently the intention of the Austro-German general staffs to try to attack Warsaw from two sides in the same manner that they drove against Przemyśl and Lemberg from two directions. A mighty army equipped with a vast number of heavy guns is hammering away at the Russians on the Przasnysz front in Northern Poland in an effort to press southward against Warsaw.

At the same time the army of Gen. von Mackensen will attempt to cut northward against the city from Galicia. However, the Austro-German forces will have to reckon with strong Russian armies upon the San.

In a supreme effort to maintain a foothold in Galicia Grand Duke Nicholas has realigned his armies upon the river Bug, 25 miles inside the Galician border and southward upon a front passing west of Busk and along the heights of the Gnita Lipa river to the southern reaches of the Dniester.

Unless the Austro-German forces are stronger than they appear to be they are running the risk of being cut into three different parts. The Russians are in a position to drive hard against the line where the armies join upon the San, thus separating the army of Field Marshal von Hindenburg in Poland from that of Gen. von Mackensen in Northern Galicia. Another danger point for the Teutons is southeast of Lemberg, where the Russian commander in chief has gathered his forces for a series of hard blows.

The thunder of battle is now heard all along this 750 mile battle-front. Although the Russians have been pushed back 130 miles in Galicia they are not disheartened. The morale of the troops is good and they are so much nearer to their supply bases that the fighting terms are more equal than previously.

The capture by the Germans of Hallez upon the Dniester is admitted, but the rearward movement there was taken to save unnecessary loss of life.

Germans Gain in Alsace.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Paris, June 29.—Gains for the Germans in Alsace, east of Metzler are admitted by the French war office in an official communique today. The advance posts of the French were thrown back but the French immediately delivered strong counter-attacks recovering part of the lost ground. The communique indicates that the fighting in Alsace is gathering in violence.

Optimistic Thought.
He is not yet born who can please everybody.

DAY'S WAR NEWS AT A GLANCE

Paris—Germans made gains in Alsace region but French recovered part of lost ground through counter-attacks.

Petrograd—150,000 Austrians being sent into Poland from Galicia to reinforce Teutonic army in drive against Warsaw. Teutonic forces running risk of having army cut into three different parts. Battle raging all along 750 mile front.

Rome—Italians bringing up heavy artillery to reduce Austrian forts defending Riva. Austrians increasing aerial activity.

Berlin—Germans made gains all along Galicia line. Russians been driven across Gnita Lipa river from Hallez to Pzazyszcz. Russians evacuating positions on Tanew river and Lower San. Russians also retreating across Bug river. Russians less than 20 miles inside of Northeastern Galicia. French attacks around Arras been repulsed. Germans resumed bombardment of Soissons.

GERMAN REPLY THE BIG QUESTION

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, June 29.—What is Germany's counter proposal to the American demand for the freedom of the seas?

This was the big question in administration and diplomatic circles today following the receipt of official advices from Ambassador Gerard at Berlin that the answer of the Kaiser to the latest note of President Wilson on the Lusitania tragedy will be favorable to the American position.

The ambassador's message gave no hint of the line this proposal would take but it is the general impression of those who read the report that the Berlin government had under consideration a plan to spare Americans traveling on passenger ships.

There is no thought in official quarters that Germany will entertain any suggestion aimed to curtail the use of submarine against the commerce of Great Britain. But it would not cause any surprise to the authorities here if a suggestion should come from Berlin that the German submarines refrain from attacking all ships used chiefly for passenger traffic and devote all their energies to warring on freight vessels of the allies transporting chiefly contraband. Germany is expected to lead to recognize the right of visit and search of passenger vessels as claimed by this nation under international law.

This optimistic view of the submarine differences between the Washington and Berlin governments extended also to the question of German liability for the loss of the American lives on the Lusitania. There likewise has been no intimation on this phase of the negotiations, but officials were of the opinion that if a satisfactory arrangement could be made as to the operations of the under sea craft there should be no trouble in disposing of the second question involved. Publication of the last communication forwarded to Berlin on the matter of payment for the sailing vessel William P. Frye, sunk by the German commerce raider, Prinz Eitel Friedrich confirmed forecasts that this government would stand by its position that the matter should be settled by diplomacy.

The note sets forth clearly the refusal of the U. S. to accept the German view that the Kaiser has the right to stop American ships from carrying contraband even to the extent of destroying the ship and the cargo it carries.

It is argued that no such power is conveyed by treaty with Germany and the latter, having admitted its liability under the treaty of 1828, there is no need to take the case to a prize court to which method the U. S. is not bound.

Meanwhile work went forward on the note to Great Britain in protest against interference with American shipping. Officials are studying closely the petition and facts presented to the state department by the New York importers and it has been stated that this study is showing more clearly that a strong argument in favor of the "dominance of the rights of neutrals in international affairs" was presented by them.

And it was pointed out that American manufacturers and cotton growers as well as metal producers and business men generally, have equality as strong a claim for consideration at the hands of the allies as have the importers who aired their grievances to the state department.

It is urged that the U. S. now is in position to demand full freedom of the seas not only for the people of this country but for those of all neutral nations as well, and should not let the opportunity go by unheeded.

Effort to Force Dardanelles.
By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Paris, June 29.—A supreme effort will shortly be made to force the Dardanelles with Italian troops and warships reinforcing the British and French in that zone of operations. That was the interpretation placed today upon the announcement by the ministry of war that Italy has broken diplomatic relations with Turkey. The cause of this redoubled effort to open up the gateway to Constantinople is the need of arms and ammunition in Russia.

Excursion to New York.
On Sunday the steamer Homer Ramsdell will take an excursion from Kingston to New York, leaving here at 7 a. m. On Monday, July 5, the boat will take an excursion to Bear Mountain Park, leaving Rondout at 8.30 a. m.

PROMOTION FOR P. O. EMPLOYEES

Three letter carriers and five clerks of the Kingston post office department will be promoted the first of the month, the promotion carrying with it an increase in salary of $100 a year. It was thought at first that as the postal appropriation bill providing for promotions had failed to pass that there would be no promotions made until next year. Postmaster Deyo, however, has received a communication from the department that owing to the efficiency with which the post offices throughout the country were maintained and the work of keeping down expenses that large sums of money had been saved and consequently the promotions would be made as usual. The Kingston department was given credit for its work and efficiency which had made it possible to make the usual promotions this year. The three letter carriers promoted are John J. Barth, Guy C. Crosby and Edwin L. Koitz. The five clerks are Edwin H. Kittle, William M. Dann, William C. Kyer, John Robins and William S. Wood.

The majority of the carriers and clerks of the local post office have reached the sixth grade which is the limit and no clerk who only eight members of the local department will be promoted.

RECORDERS' BUSY DAY.

From Family Jars to Stealing a Store
The Cases Run.

"Go home and bury the hatchet and see if you cannot live in peace during the month of July" was the advice of Recorder Lang this morning to a young married couple who had been unable to agree and which condition resulted in the wife having her husband notified to appear before the recorder. The wife claimed that her husband got drunk and then knocked her around like a rag doll. The husband denied it and said his wife was the aggressor and turning to the recorder said "Here is the proof, look at my nose" showing a small scratch, alongside the nose. After hearing the tale of woe unfolded by husband and wife the recorder said he would hold the matter open until the last of July and notified them both to appear before him at that time.

The trial of Joseph Martin, the barber, accused by Mrs. Sam Amen, the wife of the Broadway fruit dealer, with spitting in her face and calling her vile names was again adjourned to Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Patrick J. Burns, better known as "Paddy" was arrested on Monday afternoon by Policeman White for being drunk. When arraigned this morning Paddy received his usual sentence of 10 days in the county jail.

Monday morning Michael Mitchell of Post street appeared before the recorder and said that the boys in his neighborhood were all the time throwing stones at his barn and frightening his horse. This morning the ring leader was notified to appear before the recorder and was warned to desist or punishment would be meted out to the boys.

R. M. Winslow was arrested on Monday afternoon by Policeman Fout for cutting a corner while driving up Broadway in violating the traffic ordinance. When arraigned this morning he was given a copy of the traffic ordinance and discharged with a reprimand.

This morning a woman appeared before Recorder Lang with blood in her eye and stated that a relative by marriage had helped himself to her stove. She said that she wanted this relative to return the stove to exactly the same spot in her house from which he removed it and that she was going to see that he was punished for stealing her stove. Whether it was the kitchen range or a parlor stove was not stated, but further developments may be expected.

Lawn Festival.

The Westminster Guild of the Roundout Presbyterian Church will hold a lawn festival on the grounds of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith on West Pierpont street Wednesday evening beginning at half past seven o'clock. There will be ice cream and cake for sale and candy, and during the evening a fine Victrola program will be rendered. Every one is invited to come.

Scout Meeting.

This evening at headquarters of Troops 1 and 2, a very important scout meeting will be held at 7.30. All members are requested to be present and bring their June dues.

For Young Folks

Fancy Japan Chickens
at Panama Exposition.

Those fortunate children who have visited the great Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco do not need to be told of its beauties and wonders; they have seen with their own eyes. Those who contemplate going to the fair have a great pleasure in store, for all beholders unite in declaring it the most gorgeous sight imaginable. Perhaps some who have been there saw the rare exhibits in the exposition's continuous live stock show. Notable among these are the long tailed Japanese chickens, which are bred especially for the emperor of Japan and whose valuation runs to as high as $2,000 for a single bird. These chickens are housed in glass, this precaution being necessary to preserve the fine quality and sheen of their feathers. The picture shows a keeper holding one of these remarkable birds in his hand. As can be seen, the tail feathers reach to the ground.

Boy Scout Baseball.

The scoutmaster takes a question from a list of questions and fires it at the batter. If the batter misses it completely it counts as three strikes, and a correct answer by the catcher puts out the batter. If the batter answers the question correctly another question goes to an outfielder, who makes a putout or allows a safe hit by answering correctly or by missing. If the batter's answer is partly right, he is considered to knock the ball to an infielder, who makes an error or a putout at first, depending on whether he misses or answers the next question. If a runner on a base wants to try to steal, a question is sent to the infielder on the next base, who does or does not put out the runner. If an infielder wants to catch a runner napping, he calls for a question, the missing of which allows each runner to proceed to the next base. Of course his correct answer puts out the napping runners.

To be impartial, it is best to take the questions in regular order, e. g., the seventh, seventeenth, twenty-seventh, etc., throughout the list. The list may easily be made by any scoutmaster, who may find it desirable to write the answer after each question. Here are some simple questions: What is the seventh scout law? Describe the flag used by Washington in January, 1776. Bad bruises are tested how? Give the letter K in some signal code. Give seven precautions against causing fires. Give the two most important things to do for dislocation of a bone.—Scouting.

Answer: 1. Chrysanthemum. 2. Geranium. 3. Carnation. 4. Sweetpea. 5. Honeysuckle. 6. Begonia. 7. Calla lily. 8. Smilax.

Nests of Weaver Birds.

In India the baya weaver birds usually suspend their nests from branches of palms or other trees which overhang a stream and weight them with lumps of clay, which prevent them swaying about at the mercy of the wind. The natives say fireflies are fastened into the clay for the purpose of frightening away rats and snakes.

Overheard in the Kitchen.

"I hear you called on the refrigerator yesterday," said the woodbox to the pail. "Were you received pleasantly?"

"No; the refrigerator treated me with great coldness," said the pail.

SYKES' CLERK

By SARAH BAXTER

Jeremiah Sykes was a clerk in a small store in the east till he had been saving accumulated some capital; then he went out to Colorado to become a merchant on his own account. This was years ago.

Sykes' store was located at a cross-roads in a mining district in the far west, and the proprietor did a thriving business, supplying the wants of miners in a circuit of fifteen miles. He did all his work himself because he couldn't hire a clerk for less than $100 a month, and that would eat up a good share of his profits.

One day a man came into the store to buy some goods, and after settling the bill asked Sykes how he managed to handle so much business alone. Sykes told him that he should have a helper and why he didn't get one. The man suggested that he could hire a woman cheap enough, and after some conversation said he knew a woman who would be glad to work for what ever Sykes thought he could afford to pay. The merchant told him to send her along and he would see about it.

A few days after that a young woman appeared at the store, and Sykes hired her for a very small salary. He soon learned that she was as valuable to him as a man, but he did not raise her salary. Moreover, he tested her honesty by leaving cash where she could take it without being discovered, but she called his attention to it, at the same time remarking on his carelessness.

At this time a desperado called Simmons was doing a good deal of damage in the neighborhood and Sykes thought it would be better for him to hire a man instead of a woman, since he might need help if Simmons came down on him. He mentioned the matter to his clerk and she said that she could use a revolver as well as a man, and if anything happened she would prove it. Sykes was persuaded and kept her in her position, but he didn't pay her a man's wages.

Sykes' clerk became so useful to him that he gradually left one duty after another to her that he had always considered he must attend to himself, and finally he turned over to her his book-keeping. Notwithstanding the evidence he had of her honesty, he couldn't bring himself to confide his cash to her. When a robber band dashed into a bank or a store they threatened to kill whoever knew the safe combination unless it were given up. Sykes argued that if he alone could open the safe there would be less likelihood of loss than if another possessed it, especially if that other was a woman. He gave this to his clerk as an excuse for not entrusting her with the combination, and she admitted that it was a very wise precaution.

Sykes kept turning over his capital so steadily that there was never much cash on hand. He was always owing money for goods, and as soon as he received remittances to any considerable amount he paid it out to his creditors. One day his clerk asked him why he didn't let his creditors wait for their money instead of paying so promptly and make interest on it, adding that if he should at any time find it impossible to pay cash they would suspect something was wrong with him. Sykes was impressed with the idea, and ceased paying so promptly.

After that there were occasional accumulations of cash on hand. One day Sykes was in the back of the store figuring over his cash account. His clerk was at the front dusting the shelves. It was at an hour when few persons came to the place to make purchases, and no one besides the two were in the store. A man came in, said something to the clerk, and the two walked back to where Sykes was at work. He recognized in the man the person who had recommended his clerk.

"Morning, Mr. Sykes," he said. "How are you pleased with the young woman I sent you?"

"Very much," Sykes replied. "He doesn't believe that women's services are worth as much as a man's," said the clerk. "I have been with him long enough for a raise, but I don't get it."

Sykes looked uncomfortable. There was something icy cold in the tone in which she said this.

"Don't you find her trustworthy?" asked the man.

"Perfectly," said Sykes, wondering what this was leading to. "He has never trusted me with the safe combination," said the woman.

"Hasn't he? Well, I reckon he'd better pay you some back salary." With that he whipped a revolver from his hip and covered Sykes. There was a weapon in the desk on which Sykes was figuring, but he dare not attempt to get it out.

"Who are you and what do you want here?" he asked the man. "I'm Andy Simmons, and that lady is my wife. I don't think you've treated her fair in not giving her a raise since she's been here, and I've called in to see about it. Supposin' you open the safe?"

The game that had been played on Sykes flashed upon him at once. He opened the safe while the man kept him covered, and after the woman had gathered some $1,200 that was in it, they bound and gagged Sykes, walked out of the store leisurely, mounted horses standing at the door and galloped away.

Mother.

The one who loves you most, the one who is the most loving, is the one who is the easiest to please. And that is the reason children can please their mothers when they cannot please anybody else. The mother sees something that nobody else can see. It is never difficult to please your mother; she loves you so.

Largest Steam Hammer.

Woolwich arsenal possesses the largest steam hammer in the world. It is capable of striking a blow of nearly a thousand tons, and yet it is so carefully adjusted and accurately timed that it is possible to place a nut under the huge hammer and to crack the shell without injuring the kernel.—London Telegraph.

POISONOUS SNAKES.

They Are Absolutely Proof Against Their Own or Other Venom.

Snake venom is a transparent fluid, yellowish in color and of about the consistency of human saliva. When dried it takes the form of flaky yellow crystals. In this shape or dissolved in alcohol or glycerin it will remain unaltered and will preserve its poisonous properties for an indefinite period. No satisfactory chemical analysis has ever been made of it, but it seems to be a very complex albuminous compound. A curious discovery recently made is that the blood of venomous serpents is itself poisonous, containing as it does the principles that are concentrated in the secretion of the venom glands.

Venomous snakes are themselves absolutely venom proof. Rattlesnakes dosed by injection with large quantities of their own or other venom have shown not the slightest ill effects. Another remarkable fact is that serpent venom is harmless to human beings or other animals if taken internally. The late Dr. S. Weir Mitchell found that one-fourth of a drop of rattlesnake poison would kill a pigeon if given by hypodermic injection, but a pigeon fed with six drops a day for three successive days suffered not at all in consequence.

Professor Mangill, a pioneer investigator in this line, had an assistant who boldly swallowed all the venom that could be extracted from four large vipers. No bad effects followed. The same negative result was noted by Professor Baird, at that time secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, who ate the venom glands of a rattlesnake. As recently ascertained, serpent venom in such circumstances is harmless, because it cannot pass through the mucous membrane that lines the stomach, and it undergoes changes during digestion that allow it to enter the blood as an innocuous substance.—Every Week.

Irony.

MAKING MUSIC BOXES.

Great Skill and Meager Pay For the Experts of Geneva.

One big industry of Geneva, Switzerland, is the manufacture of music boxes. Thousands of men, women and children are employed in the factories, one of which was visited by a young American, who thus writes about the visit: "An attendant invited him to take a seat. He did so, and strains of delightful music came from the chair. He hung his hat on a rack and put his traveling staff in the stand. Music came from both rack and stand. He wrote his name in the visitors' register, and on dipping his pen in the ink the music burst forth from the inkstand. The manager of the factory explained the process of making music boxes, a business which requires patience and nicety.

The different parts are made by men who are experts in those parts, and they do nothing else year in and year out.

The music is marked on the cylinder by a man who has served several years of apprenticeship. Another man inserts in the marked places pegs which have been filed to a uniform length. The comb or set of teeth which strikes the pegs and makes the sound is arranged by a man who does nothing else. The cylinder is then revolved to see that every peg produces a proper tone.

The most delicate work of all is the reving of each peg. It is done by a workman who has a good ear for music. He sees that each peg is in its proper place and bent at the correct angle.

When the instrument is in its case an expert examines it to see that the time is perfect and good.

The best workmen—those who mark the cylinder and adjust the pegs—earn $180 a day, after serving an apprenticeship of ten or twelve years. An ordinary workman earns $1 a day.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Mercenary Ballot.

Sheppard's Plaid. Of course everybody knows the popular black and white check patterned cloth "sheppard's plaid," but ninety-nine people of every hundred ascribe the origin of this cognomen to some connection with the pastoral personage, which is apparently indicated. Indeed, the description is generally written erroneously by tailors as "shepherd's plaid." Sheppard was the manufacturer who first introduced this fabric, and he exhibited his invention at the great exhibition of 1851.—London Scraps.

They tell a story of a man in a great city who forgot his own name. He put an ad. in the paper. Within a few hours he was quizzed by so many curious people that he put an ad. in a later edition stating that he wanted to stay lost.

WELL-MEANING CIVIC PESTS.

The Robert Dollar Steamship Company, operating trans-Pacific and coastwise steamers, has announced that it will change its ships from American to British registry and that the reason for such action is the enactment of the La Follette Seamen's Act requiring that seventy-five per cent of all crews under American registry must be able to understand any order given by the officers of the vessel. The law might be reasonable enough as regards commissary and deck forces but when it affects the fireroom force, it becomes too burdensome for the Dollar Company to carry, and the company therefore seeks the more rational registry laws of Great Britain. It is expected that other American lines will follow the Dollar Company's example.

Year by year business becomes more difficult to conduct on account of legislation enacted at the behest of various civic bodies. Demagogues lend themselves willingly to schemes conceived by impractical idealists and specious arguments captivate Chautauqua and other crowds which depend on someone else to do their thinking. Are Congress and the various state legislatures entirely to blame for the foolish legislation which encumbers the statute books?

A movement inaugurated by some half-informed fanatic or idealist gains the backing of prominent men and women who promptly organize a society to accomplish by legislation a change in conditions which they are led to believe is disastrous to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Legislators are only human and it requires a brave man to face boldly a popular movement and say, "I won't."

So we go back to the legislature to the civic body which has listened to the siren song of the demagogue. Men and women prominent politically, socially, financially, can be found to lend themselves to almost any movement. Is it because they are public spirited? How many such movements die a burning because they fail to receive public attention? So it is public attention, then, which the movement or the organization needs to lead it to success. It needs the limelight. Everyone who is connected with the movement or the organization gets in the limelight, too.

Of all the frailties of human nature, vanity is the most common. The laws of human nature have decreed that people who think they are a little better, a little brainer, a little more prominent than their neighbors shall demonstrate that fact to the best of their ability. The limelight helps, therefore, a rush to the place where the spotlight plays. Because a man gets in the spotlight, the general public is apt to accept his statement that he belongs there; was born for the spot and just fits it, and humanity is too busy with its own affairs to "get the hook" for him or turn the light elsewhere unless he does something vicious.

It ought to be possible for civic organizations which have a mission to perform it without advertising themselves. At Forty-second Street and Fifth Avenue, Manhattan, is a huge "Safety First" banner advising pedestrians to cross the streets at street corners and not between blocks. The banner can be read nearly half a block away but the letters of warning could be bigger and seen further if the name of the society which placed it there had been omitted; its name is in just as big letters as the warning. To know the society's name adds nothing to the force of the warning and it occupies valuable space which might better be devoted to bigger letters of warning. The society accomplished its mission when it placed the banner. Isn't it possible to accomplish a mission without advertising the fact?

One of the funniest things we have noticed in some time is a letter sent by Harriet Stanton Blatch of the "Women's Political Union" to the members of the Constitutional Convention. It protests against "sailing under false colors," and makes a special drive at such expressions in the present Constitution as "All officers . . . shall be elected by the people," and "We, the people of the State of New York . . . do establish this Constitution." The point sought to be made is that women are a part of the people and that in consequence the word cannot properly be used when they are left out. The trouble with Mrs. Blatch is that like many of her coterie, she trusts to her "woman's intuition" rather than to established facts set down in books of reference. If she had taken the trouble to consult a dictionary she would have discovered to her astonishment that the word "people" has no less than nine different meanings, without counting "pee-pul" at all. One of these definitions is "that part of the population vested with political rights; the enfranchised." It was not a woman, but a man, who gave us the wise saying: "Be sure you are right, then go ahead."

THE SEASON FOR SWIMMING LESSONS.

(By Our Woman Editor.)

Already—and the season has just begun—reports of deaths from drowning are coming in with unhappy persistence. Sometimes they seem not easily avoidable, but often they result from the insane habit that some folk think funny or amusing, the rocking of a row-boat.

And always one wonders if it is true that the very person most zealous to create excitement of that sort would be the first to swim away to safety, the last to think of anyone but himself in case the little party came to grief through his carelessness. For it is fairly safe to guess that anyone who feels a sense of responsibility for the safety of others or who would be conspicuous as a life-saver, if need be, would be a bit cautious at the start, while the boat-rocker, at the first sign of disaster, would hasten to shore quite "by his lones."

Perhaps warnings are futile, but one always wants to call out a word of caution against the habit of changing seats in a little boat. It is a practice that exacts heavy toll the summer long, and although many gaily change and row away, singing as they go, there are others for whom the song dies away, and the undue motion brings sudden doom. And it is no needless!

Perhaps most of us can recall experiences in which we have figured where the element of risk was lightly ignored, just because the novelty of the situation lured and made us forget judgment and caution. We escaped but the same good fortune does not come to all; and when one of a merry crowd falls a victim to mere venturesomeness life is not long enough to bring forgetfulness to the rest or to wipe out regret.

And this is the season when the small boy yearns for the swimming-pool, and parents cautiously, fearfully, say "no," yet the very best time to learn the useful swimming art is in childhood. Then all that is needed is the opportunity. Later on there is no particular desire to learn; it is put off, and finally is quite neglected.

Yet it is more than a sport and a pastime and should be part of the all-around training given to every boy and girl, for many of the drowning accidents recorded in large numbers every season might be avoided if swimming had been included in early training.

There comes to mind the story of a rescue that would have been impossible had the man who figured in the incident been anything less than the skilled swimmer he was.

It happened in Pennsylvania a year or so ago. The attention of passengers on a moving train was attracted to the unusual spectacle of a boy struggling in the midstream current of the Susquehanna, which was swollen far beyond its usual strength. The brakeman saw the struggling lad and knew that the contest was unequal, with but one ending possible unless someone hurried to the rescue—and he made ready for the plunge.

The train overtook and passed the boy fast swirling down the river, and when the proper point was reached, the brakeman swung clear from the train and leaped into the water. He was a strong, skilled swimmer, but the tide was rushing, and it needed all his energy to reach the lad and make his way back to safety. Thanks to pluck and training the daring brakeman won the fight.

It is not surprising that it is only the occasional woman who learns to swim, for it is one of the things a little "out of her line," and though knowledge may be equally needed by her it is far more difficult for her to make use of it in an emergency.

But it is amazing to note the number of men who cannot swim a stroke, men who are supposed to have had every advantage of thorough physical training, but are lacking in that one essential. It is the more remarkable because so much of genuine admiration invariably goes to the man well equipped for all the buffeting that may come his way.

Most of us must confess to ignorance of the first swimming stroke, and unless we are including a course of lessons as part of the summer plans, it is well not to grow too reckless when only a board or two separates us from the water where, left to our own fate, we would be perfectly helpless.

As to the boys and girls—why not better equip them?

Representative W. R. Oglesby of New York comes from Yonkers, a town which can boast of having the biggest carpet factory in the world, the biggest hat factory in the world and the largest elevator works in the world—all of which shows that Yonkers is some town and able to walk alone.

Oglesby is known to fame socially in New York as the champion golf player in the house, and while on the links lately he heard the following story told by a senator friend:

It seems that this senator has a sister-in-law who is a woman of some years and is much loved by her nieces and nephews, who are yet of a tender age, believing in Santa Claus. Last Christmas the kids were skimming around to get stockings big enough to hold the goodies and presents they expected Santa to bring.

"Well, Aunt Mary," chirped one plump boy, "how big would a stocking have to be to hold all you want?" "Not very large, Charlie," laughed the aunt. "All I wish could just fit in a pair socks nicely."—New York Herald.

There will be prayer meeting on Wednesday evening.

Tug Boats Must Not Smoke.

Captains of tug boats and of other river craft who are responsible for allowing their boats to leave clouds of heavy black smoke in their wake are to feel Health Commissioner Goldwater's wrath. He started a crusade on Monday against this nuisance, saying the New York Tribune.

The first hint that the campaign against the smoking steamboats was on Monday when five tug boat captains were arraigned before Magistrate Herbert in the Tombs police court charged with violation of the smoke ordinance. Among the captains brought to court on Monday was William H. Wright of the tug Hercules. All of the captains were held in nominal bail for trial.

In their defense it is said they will contend that if Federal water craft can ply the river unmolested, although violators of the city smoke ordinance, civilian tugs should not be discriminated against. The other captains arraigned were Harry Warren of the Pequot; Eric Erickson of the J. Richard Steers; John L. Clark of the Dictator, and William T. Woodward of the Orissa.

ROXMOR BEEFSTEAK DELIGHTS GUESTS

Secretary Edward B. Miller of The Roxmor, at Woodland, entertained about forty of the Kingston business and professional men at a beefsteak dinner at the new inn Monday evening. The party motored from Kingston and occupied twelve machines.

The dinner was a unique affair and one of Mr. Miller's creations. The beefsteaks, the finest that can be procured, are cooked over a charcoal fire. They are placed on a broiler over the fire and well seasoned while they are broiling. After they have been broiled to suit the taste they are placed on a slice of bread and a big chunk of butter placed on the hot steak and allowed to simmer down. This is then eaten from the hand. Those who attended say the steak was just as easy to bite as the bread and was the finest steak they had ever eaten.

Tables about six feet long were arranged for the guests. They were no higher than the chairs and in the center of each was a plate of olives. The tables were for the purpose of resting the steak upon but it was an agreed fact that when a man got a steak in his hand he didn't pause for a rest. The tables were set in the beautifully artistic grill room.

Roxmor is situated in the beautiful Woodland Valley and while rustic to all external appearances is modern in all its appointments. Running spring water is available on all parts of the grounds and a system of sanitary drainage has been established.

The buildings, of which there are forty or more, are all rustic in design and harmonize perfectly with their surroundings. In the main building are the various lounging and writing rooms for the gentlemen and ladies, all fitted up with every modern convenience for the guests. The dining rooms will comfortably seat 150 guests.

Not only are there a number of cottages in connection with Roxmor but there are a number of sites for camps upon which tents can be erected to suit the convenience and desire of the guests. Besides there are a number of lots which are suitable for the erection of private bungalows.

The main building is surrounded by a porch which gives an exquisite view of the entire Woodland valley.

A pretty feature of the evenings there is the lantern effects. Each guest in the evening is provided with a lantern by the light of which he picks his way from his cottage to the main building. When the main building is reached the lanterns are all placed around on the railing on the porch, which gives a very pretty effect.

Woodland is within easy reach of Kingstonians. After Phoenixia is reached one turns to the left up through the Woodland Hollow and easily reaches the place.

Beefsteak dinners such as this are to be had at any time, provided three days' notice is given to Mr. Miller.

The Roxmor is visited by a very fine class of people and is coming to be recognized as the leading resort in the Catskills.

Her Gift

By F. A. MITCHEL

A girl was sitting on the porch of her home thinking. Five years before on that very day of the month she had refused Henry MacMillan. She was then eighteen years old, and the indirect method in love affairs appealed to her. If a man proposed to her and she refused him she expected him to return the next day and the next and so on till she accepted him. MacMillan had no conception of this sort of love-making. He never said anything he didn't mean and couldn't understand any one else doing so. But his experience with women was not extensive.

On this summer afternoon Luella Travers was thinking of Henry MacMillan. She had not intended to refuse him more than once. When he came back the second time—which she naturally expected he would do—she intended to accept him and at the same time show him how long she had loved him by giving him a smoking cap, on which she had embroidered a wreath. He had no use for a smoking cap and no ambition to wear a wreath about his head, but Luella couldn't think of anything else to do for him.

Henry was as stupid about some things as he was wise about others. If a dozen persons had witnessed the refusal he received every one of them would have known that Luella was refusing him with her tongue, while she was accepting him in her heart. Henry heard her words, but saw not their denial. He had received a business offer in a distant city and wished to learn if Luella would marry him. If so he would consult with her as to its acceptance; if not he would accept it without consulting her and go where he would not be near her and consequently the better able to recover from his desire for her.

Luella was a bit surprised that Henry should have taken her reply so seriously, should have bowed, though reluctantly, to what he considered the inevitable. He left her without a murmur, and she was somewhat fearful that he might not give her an opportunity to recall her refusal. She had half a mind to call him back. But half a mind is not a whole mind, and she let him go, expecting the next time she met him to draw him to another proposal by those winning ways she understood how to apply.

She did not see Henry for several days, then she was greatly shocked to hear that he had gone to another city to engage in business and make it his home. Why she did not write him to tell him that her refusal of him was only temporary does not appear. Perhaps it was for the same reason that the myriads of other temporary refusals are not recalled. A woman must wait for a first proposal, and it is equally obligatory for him to wait for a second.

And now Luella on the anniversary of her refusal—the date was as well fixed in her mind as her birthday—was sitting on the porch wondering—as she had wondered constantly since her lover's departure—what could have made him so stupid. And yet had he seen through her game what would have been the pleasure in her playing it? It had not occurred to her that she had better have refrained from the fun and acted on the principle that a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush.

Who is that tall figure coming up the road? There is something familiar in the walk, something in the outline, something intangible, indescribable about the whole. Luella's heart stood still. Yes, it is Henry. He is heavier than he was, his step is a trifle less quick than it used to be, but it is Henry, the man she refused five years ago, to her regret ever since.

Was he coming to renew his proposal?

Luella had had fits of anger against her lover for being so stupid. Now, instead of a hope springing in her heart that he was coming to tell her that he could not live without her, with a consequent throwing herself into his arms, she was seized with a desire to punish him. For what? For having taken her refusal seriously.

Henry came on. Luella, pretending she did not see him, looked up at the sky. He stopped before the house, then mounted the steps. Luella forced a smile. He looked as gloomy as the day he had left her.

"Why, Mr. MacMillan," she exclaimed, "What a long time since I have seen you!"

"I've not been in this town since I saw you last," he said.

"Come back to see your mother, I suppose?"

"Yes; to see my mother, but to see you, too. I've passed an unsatisfied five years since I left here. I've come back to try to persuade you to recall what you said to me just before I left you."

"There was something so miserable in his appearance and tone that her desire to punish him for his stupidity broke away. Asking him to 'wait a bit,' she went into the house and brought out the smoking cap she had kept so long.

"I had intended to recall what I said the next day, but you didn't give me an opportunity. I had been making this gift for you for months and expected to give it with my consent."

She spoke through tears.

The man—only a genius could portray the mingled emotions expressed on his face.

AUTOMOBILE NOTES.

How to obtain one hundred cents' worth of road for every dollar expended will form the topic for many of the speakers at the mid-summer meeting of the New York State Automobile Association, which is to take place in Niagara Falls July 19, according to an announcement which has been made from the association headquarters. The list of speakers for the time being has not been made public but it is asserted that when the names are announced they will be those of men not only of state wide prominence but of national note.

The New York State Automobile Association has taken the position that because of the constant changes in the highway department there has been a terrible waste of money in the building of roads. The association has started a campaign prior to the opening of the constitutional convention to awaken the public to the realization of the enormous waste in the highway department. And it has been asserted by the officials of the association that one of the main purposes of the mid-summer meeting at the Falls is to focus public attention upon the general situation of the highway department with a view of awakening public sentiment to a point where it will enforce upon the part of officials a more sane notion of what highway money is intended for.

The executive committee which is in direct charge of the plans of the meeting have received information to the effect that about seventy-five per cent of the motorists who will attend the meeting at the Falls will tour from various parts of the state. Because of the fact that a large number will arrive Sunday night an informal reception will be held that evening. The meeting will be called to order at ten o'clock Monday morning and an adjournment for lunch will be taken at one o'clock.

The afternoon will be used for a sight-seeing trip around the Falls and automobiles will be provided for those who have not come in their own machines. Efforts are now being made by the Niagara Falls Club to secure permission from the Canadian government to allow the guests to cross the river and go to the Canadian side. The return will be made in time to give the visiting motorists an opportunity to get their supper and attend the grand ball which will take place in the evening, closing the day's festivities.

Hudson River District Motor Routes.

Not only are the main roads on either side of the Hudson river parts of the great through route from New York city and Albany or Troy to Buffalo and the west, but from them branch a surprising number of important lines which literally thread the picturesque and historic territory within a radius of from twenty-five to fifty and even a hundred miles. The two predominant routes (New York-Poughkeepsie, Hudson-Albany, on the east side, and New York-Newburgh-Kingston-Catskill-Albany, on the west side), have long since become well known to the through tourist; but perhaps relatively few are aware of the almost infinite variety to be had by using parts of these lines for the purpose of framing up interesting trips of from two days to a week's duration, through as interesting and diverse-

DR. SWINBURNE, OF ALBANY.

Has been a successful practicing physician for over twenty years. He has for many years devoted his entire time to the study and cure of chronic diseases—just such cases that resist the skill of the ordinary physician and it is by Dr. Swinburne's original improved methods that many patients whose cases were pronounced incurable by other physicians were restored to health. He is opposed to the wild craze for surgery and in many cases his treatment cured without the aid of surgery when an operation was said to be the only means of a cure. He condemns the prevalent practice of giving opiates and other powerful drugs. Such drugs produce only temporary relief and the quieting and stupefying effects of the drugs allow a disease to continue to develop before a patient fully realizes the serious condition. Dr. Swinburne's method is to treat the foundation of the trouble so that the result will be a perfect and permanent cure, and many wonderful cures have been produced in cases where other eminent doctors had failed. Cases most successfully treated are Stomach Trouble, Nerve and Blood Disorders, Neurasthenia or other Nerve Troubles, Eczema and Blood Diseases, Rheumatism, Special Weakness, Debility, Malnutrition, Chronic Coughs and Lung Diseases, and Private Diseases of Men and Women.

ed country as can be found in the eastern states.

A noteworthy feature about these combination trips is that they are equally accessible to the motorist who travels northward from the metropolitan district, to residents of up state or visitors from the west coming down the Hudson river to New York city, the shore line of lower New England, the nearby Long Island resorts or the New Jersey sea coast. A large proportion of them are described in detail, with mileages, in volume 1 of the Automobile Blue Books covering New York state and Canada, with connections into the adjoining states; all are shown in the new series of pilot maps. Supplementary information, including specific data on current road conditions, can be had at any one of the New York State Motor Federation touring bureaus, of which the two most convenient for the Hudson river district are those of the A. A. Metropolitan Consulate, 437 5th avenue, New York city, and the Ten Eyck, Albany, N. Y.

Yonkers, Dobbs Ferry, Tarrytown, Scarborough, Ossining and Peekskill in their order along the lower half of the New York-Poughkeepsie through route, are all on the Hudson river edge of Westchester county, which is literally gridironed with good roads, some of which extend beyond its borders into Dutchess county or nearby Connecticut. Using the main line to any of these points, and turning east or northeast, the tourist may cross part or all of the suburban territory above the metropolis, visiting Briarcliff, the Croton Lake district, Kensico reservoir, White Plains, Rye Beach, New Rochelle, and other points on the shore line back to New York. This round trip with variations, and even some extensions, can easily be made in a day.

By continuing the east side route up through Peekskill to Poughkeepsie, the tourist may turn east through the pleasant village of Millbrook to Sharon or Lakeville, Conn., Great Barrington, Stockbridge, Lenox and Pittsfield, Mass., coming back to Great Barrington, thence southeast through Caanan, Winsted and Torrington to Waterbury, Conn., and down the justly famous Naugatuck valley to Derby, Shelton and Bridgeport, returning by the "shore line" to Norwalk, Stamford, Port Chester, New Rochelle and New York. This is a comfortable round trip of from two to three days; and is often varied by going up through Poughkeepsie to Hudson before turning east into Massachusetts. It makes a loop of the principal Berkshire Hills resorts and takes the tourist through portions of three states, where excellent hotel and garage accommodations will be found throughout. By a relatively small addition of mileage, the tour just outlined may be brought back from the Berkshires through Springfield, Hartford and New Haven, Conn., adding the variety of a fine stretch of somewhat less than 30 miles along or nearby the Connecticut river.

The side trips and longer circuits using parts of the main route on the west side of the Hudson are equally interesting, and include not only runs to Nyack, Haverstraw, West Point, Newburgh, New Paltz, Greenwood Lake, Warwick and other places no farther away than some points in Westchester county, but also to Port Jervis, Delaware, Water Gap and the Pocono Mountains of nearby Pennsylvania, which make excellent two days' or three days' trips. While all these routes require a ferry boat, either at the beginning or somewhere en route, this cross-river service is now at its height and little or no delay will be experienced in carrying through one's schedule. Newburgh, Goshen and Middletown are the three most important gateways through which the usually good roads of Orange county may be reached, and fine middle-distance tours arranged to Orange Lake, Walden, Montgomery, Lake Minnewaska and Cragmoor, as well as to the principal resorts in Sullivan county.

From both Kingston and Catskill, several roads lead into the Catskill Mountains, and also across them to the beautiful Susquehanna valley or beyond. Running out of Kingston to the west or northwest, the tourist has plenty of opportunity to see the great Ashokan reservoir; returning by way of Catskill, there unfolds from the top of the hill at East Windham perhaps the finest single view in the Catskills, embracing a panorama of mountains, streams and villages as far as the eye can reach. Any of these circuits can be made in from two to three days from New York, Albany, Utica, Syracuse, Binghamton or Elmira; or in one more day from the most distant parts of the Empire State.

The tourist who runs up or down the main lines between New York and Albany (even though he takes one side going and the other returning) has very little conception of the Hudson river valley as a whole; but by means of these and other equally available side trips, acquaintance is easily made with many points of interest, such as Newburgh, with Washington's headquarters and other memories of the revolution, Lake Mohonk, just west of New Paltz where the peace conferences are held, strategic West Point and its famous academy, Tuxedo Park, the Ramapo valley, the Litchfield Hills, the Naugatuck and Housatonic valleys and the Berkshire Hills. At least 95 per cent of all these trips can be made over state roads or other highways in good condition throughout the summer season. Trips of many times the length and often passing through parts of several states, may have no more intrinsic variety than those easily laid out through the Hudson river valley and the fine interstate territory adjacent to it.

THEODORE E. BURTON, PHOTOGRAPHED UPON HIS ARRIVAL IN NEW YORK AFTER HIS SOUTH AMERICAN TRIP.

New York, June 29.—Theodore E. Burton, ex-United States Senator from Ohio, has just returned from a 15,000 mile journey through the various countries of South America, and gives some views of the commercial possibilities in those countries.

The ex-Senator said that South America has more land available for agriculture than any other continent in the world. It will soon be feeding the world. The countries of the southern continent are close to the United States in a commercial sense and wish to be closer. Mr. Burton is of the opinion that the commercial possibilities in the countries below the equator have not been tapped as yet. What is needed most, according to Mr. Burton, is a fast steamship line running between the United States and South American ports.

He talked of the financial depression in South America caused by the war, and said that the people there were anxious for peace. Their sentiments are divided between the French and the Germans.

UNKINDNESS.

If we will remember unkindnesses it is well to begin with our own. Those we have received are not usually one sided, and the bitter words whose memory stings were seldom entirely without provocation. This at least is true: If, on examining our animosities and resentments, we find ourselves wholly blameless it will at once become easy to forgive.

Flies Are Wholesale
Carriers of Infectious Diseases

OVER 6,000,000 germs have been found on the body of one common housefly. The latter is an involuntary carrier of disease germs through accidental contamination of its feet or body or wing or buccal equipment.

The filth frequenting habits of the insect are responsible for its transmitting typhoid germs. It frequently is burdened with various germs of other diseases as well, and according to Dr. Williams and other eminent authorities, millions of bacteria are sometimes to be found on the body of a single fly.

It was Dr. L. O. Howard, the government expert entomologist, who rechristened the housefly the typhoid fly. He has done humanity great service in calling public attention to the chief danger with which it menaces us. There are nearly 500,000 cases of typhoid fever yearly in the United States and nearly 50,000 deaths. Forty-nine thousand infants die annually of enteritis, or summer complaint. In both diseases most of the germs are distributed by flies. It is impossible to estimate how greatly the fly figures in the ravages of tuberculosis, diphtheria and cholera. Flies are now known to be the most deadly enemy of man.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

9910.—A Dainty Little Model—Girls' Apron.

This simple practical garment may do duty as a dress or apron. It has sufficient fullness and is cut with body and sleeve in one. The fullness over the back is held in place with a belt. The design is good for percale, lawn, dimity, gingham, cambric, chambray or crossbar muslin. It may be trimmed as desired, and cut with round or square neck edge. The pattern is cut in 5 sizes: 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. It requires 1 1/2 yards of 36 inch material for a 6 year size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

MRS. NILS FLORMAN

ASKS $25,000 A YEAR TO SUPPORT HOME AND BABY.

New York, June 29.—A yearly income of $25,000 is not enough for Mrs. Nils Florman. It is impossible for her to take care of the baby, maintain her $5,000 a year apartment on Madison avenue, her summer cottage at Sands Point, L. I., and employ nurses, maids and chauffeur on that amount, she asserted in the surrogate's court in making an application for $25,000 outright of the $300,000 trust fund left her under the will of her father, Charles Kohler, who left an estate worth more than $4,000,000.

Mrs. Florman was twenty years old on December 10, 1914, she said in her petition. On April 5, 1914, she was married to Nils Florman and she and her husband went to Europe on a wedding trip. The war broke out when they were in Weisbaden, Germany, and they were unable to leave the country while the mobilization was in progress. When they did get away they left baggage worth $3,000.

The marriage of Miss Olga Kohler to Nils Florman, a jewelry salesman, came as a surprise to society. The announcement of the engagement of Mr. Florman to Miss Helen Stallo, joint heiress with her sister, Laura, to the millions of the late Alexander McDonald, Standard oil man, had been made a few years previous and broken by Miss Stallo.

Florman, it was rumored, had claimed to be the descendant of Swedish kings, but investigation of his family tree is said to have revealed that it was not all he had represented it to be.

A few months before his marriage Florman was accused of selling jewelry to George W. Quintard, while the latter was intoxicated. He was upheld by his employers, however. At one time Florman was attentive to Miss Katherine Force, sister of Madeline Force, now the widow of Col. John Jacob Astor. The late Mr. Astor and Mr. Florman were fast friends.

Doctors and Drugs.

A large number of physicians are themselves addicted to the use of morphine. This is no wonder, considering the strenuous life they lead, and the fact that they are continually handling the drug. Conscientious physicians have for some time past refused to administer it, but then, what was the use, while there were so many others willing to do so?

Safe to Pardon.

When a man is sincerely penitent, and gives satisfactory evidence of the same, he can safely be pardoned.—Lincoln.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

State of New York, office of the state commissioner of highways, Albany, N. Y.
Pursuant to the provisions of chapter 30, laws of 1909, as amended by chapter 649, laws of 1911, and chapter 80, laws of 1913, sealed proposals will be received by the undersigned at their office, No. 55 Lancaster street, Albany, N. Y., at 1 o'clock p. m. on Thursday, the 16th day of July, 1915, for the improvement of the following highway:

Ulster county--Road No. 2570, West Hurley-Woodstock, mileage 2.97.
Maps, plans, specifications and estimates may be seen and proposal forms obtained at the office of the commissioner in Albany, N. Y., and also at the office of division engineer, Bertrand H. Wait, Columbus Institute, 31 Washington street, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

The special attention of bidders is called to "Information for Bidders," in the licensed proposal, specifications and contract agreement.
Proposals for each road or contract must be presented in a separate sealed envelope endorsed on the outside with the name and number of the road or contract for which the proposal is made. Each proposal must be accompanied by a New York draft or certified check payable to the order of the state commissioner of highways for an amount equal to at least five per cent of the amount of the proposal which such draft or check accompanies.
The successful bidder will be required to give a bond for fifty per cent of the amount of the contract; such bond to be executed by a surety company to be approved by the commissioner, or a bond secured by the deposit of collateral securities to be approved by the commissioner.
The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

WALDEN'S CELEBRATION.

Big Time Planned There For the Fourth of July.

An old-fashioned celebration of Independence Day, which will be without a doubt the largest day in the history of Walden, is the plan of the committee which has the affair in charge, and whose plans have already reached that stage where the above result can be safely predicted.

Parades, with bands of music and drum corps in line, military and fraternal organizations, social and athletic clubs, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A. and school children; two baseball games, athletic sports for young and old, both male and female; band and orchestra concerts, and a grand display of fireworks in the evening, is a synopsis of the plans of the day.

On July 3, 4 and 5, the members of the First Regiment, Uniformed Rank, Jr. O. U. A. M., composed of about 500 men, coming from Middletown, Kingston, Ravena, Poughkeepsie, Catskill and other places, will hold their annual encampment in this village, and will participate in the celebration, an invitation extended to them having been accepted. The battalion will have their own music with them, in the form of the Oriental Drum Corps of Middletown, formerly known as the Charles Higham Flute Band.

The parade will be held in the morning, passing through the principal streets of the village to Bradley Field, the local baseball park, where the sports of the day will take place. A feature of the plans is the picnic dinner which has been arranged to be held in the grove at the park. Here tables will be provided for those who desire to bring their lunch, and it is hoped that many will avail themselves of that privilege.

Light refreshments will be on sale at the grounds during the day, as will souvenirs, etc., committees having been named for the purpose.

Every detail in the preparation for the event has been taken care of by the large committees which are working for the success of the affair.

Walden extends a hearty welcome for all who can, to join in the celebration on that day, and promises to all her friends a day which will long be remembered. Auto parties planning for a day's outing cannot find a better place to visit than this bustling village, and will find a cordial welcome extended to them.

ELLENVILLE.

Ellenville, June 29.—Among the large number of Ellenville people attending the boat races at Poughkeepsie were Alfred N. Rapp and George Warner, going by train. The Misses Greta Rapp, Edith and Edna Wright, Pauline Taylor and Josephine Carver, going by auto with H. S. Wells. Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Cookingham and friends, by auto. Dr. George F. Wilklow, Mrs. Wilklow and Mr. and Mrs. John H. Divine, by auto.

A camping party of about sixteen young lads and lassies in their teens, with Mrs. Vrooman and Mrs. Vernon as chaperones, are spending ten days at Lake Shore camp at Ulster Heights. The entire party are guests of J. H. Stephenson, whose kindness has made the trip possible. A large number of Ellenville people of the boys and girls joined them for Sunday and enjoyed a fine dinner at Camp Cornellus.

The Children's Day services at the Reformed Church Sunday evening were enjoyed by all attending. The singing by the school and the large choir was inspiring. There were solo parts and duets by the Misses Bertha Demarest and Virginia Pauline Taylor and the address by Rev. Mr. Hughes, representing the New York Tribune Fresh Air Fund, was enjoyed. In co-operation with the congregations of the village churches Mr. Hughes hopes to place a number of children in the different homes for two weeks during the summer time.

Mrs. S. K. Thomas has returned from New York and opened her home on Main street for the summer.

Mrs. Thomas Don of Hickory street has gone to spend some weeks with her husband in New York. Edward Don will stay with his aunt, Mrs. William Dugan, on Center street, during his mother's absence.

The "Jolly Six" will hold their weekly dance at Norbury Hall, beginning on Monday night, July 5, and continuing them every Saturday night during the summer. Rosenberg's orchestra will furnish music for dancing.

Several Ellenville people including the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Clark, of South Market street, attended the Clark-Trowbridge wedding at Binghamton on Saturday. Upon their return from their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Clark will reside in Ellenville, where Mr. Clark is engaged with his father in the coal business.

Mrs. John Amthor from Middletown has returned to make her home in Ellenville and for the present has taken rooms with Mrs. William Miller.

Jackson S. Schultz has returned to Ridgeway, Pa. after spending some time on his farm at Leavenworth. Mrs. Schultz and son and daughter will remain for some time longer.

Miss Florence M. Jollie is spending some days with her grandmother, Mrs. M. M. Kortright, at Monticello.

She Was Selling Jewelry.

"Don't you want to buy some jewelry?" asked an unknown woman of Policeman Reardon as he was walking down Gill street on Monday afternoon. The policeman informed the woman that he was not in the market just at present for jewelry and as her actions were somewhat queer he decided to shadow her, with the result that he found that she pawned a diamond ring and other valuables in a store on the Strand for a dollar. Policeman Reardon shadowed the woman to an uptown hotel and learned that it was a patient from Sahler's Sanitarium. The sanitarium was notified and an attendant appeared at the hotel and accompanied the woman back to the sanitarium.

FOR CHILDREN'S COURTS.

Hearing on Proposed Amendment to the State Constitution.

An important hearing will be held before the judiciary committee of the Constitutional Convention Wednesday afternoon upon the proposed amendment introduced by Judge Clearwater, providing that children's courts and courts of domestic relations may be established either as separate courts or part of the existing courts. The amendment provides that the legislature may confer upon these courts "such equity and other jurisdiction as may be necessary for the correction, protection, guardianship and disposition of delinquent, neglected and dependent minors, and for the punishment of cases of adults responsible for or contributing to the delinquency of children."

The children's courts and domestic relations courts have been established in many states, it being now conceded that in the treatment of wayward and neglected children, court procedure should be as far removed as possible from criminal procedure. This is brought about by making courts trying children equity courts, enabling them to proceed under the old equity practice which existed in the courts of chancery in this state prior to the adoption of the constitution of 1846, humanity having returned to the scriptural notion that children should be subjected to the government of parents, or in the absence of parents to government by the state which should deal with them in a parental fashion, the object being always the protection and guardianship of the child. During the last half of the nineteenth century a motion has prevailed that precocity on the part of children should be encouraged with the result that American society has been dominated and run, so to speak, by half baked, bumptious youngsters, a natural corollary of this being the throwing off of parental control. These courts exist in Massachusetts, in Philadelphia, Illinois, Colorado and a number of the Southern States.

Clearwater's proposed amendment has the support of the most eminent judges, and lawyers of the state of New York, and at the hearing on Wednesday Bernard Flexner and Judge Mack of the domestic relations court, and children's court of Chicago, will address the judiciary committee in support of it.

Small, Roomy Cottage of Seven Rooms. No. 116

Although this cottage is described as one of seven rooms, this number may easily be increased to nine if it is desired to finish off the two chambers on the third floor, for which provision has been made by the architect. This cottage is particularly suited to a conventional city lot. Its lines, while giving an impression of solidity, do not overdo this effect, while the slight overhang of the second story, supported by brackets, combines with the group window to give an air of quiet elegance to the entire structure, accentuated by the stucco walls and chimneys and the shingled gables and roof.

Going up three easy steps to a portico, entrance is afforded directly into the living-room, 24x13 feet. At the front of the room an inside flower box extends the entire length of the seat of the triple window. At the left is a fireplace, 8x13 feet, directly back of the fireplace, by an ingenious arrangement of French doors, can be made practically an integral part of the living-room. In warm weather the doors may be thrown wide, making a direct through draft with the two windows directly opposite. In winter the porch may be completely enclosed with glass, thus affording a sun parlor, a conservatory, or a retired nook when privacy and quiet may be desired.

From the living-room French doors lead to the dining-room, 12x14 feet. This room is exceptionally well lighted. A china closet occupies one corner, while balancing it on the same side of the room is the door to the pantry, equipped with the customary china closet, cupboard, drawers and shelves. To the right of the pantry is the kitchen, 12x12. The sink here is located directly beneath the rear windows and is furnished with ample drain boards. Beside the range is a large closet—all features that are sure to be appreciated by the housewife.

The stairs going to the basement and the second story, while side by side, are entirely separate. A door half way down one side of the house opens into an entry from which both the basement and the kitchen may be reached. There is ample space in this entry for a refrigerator, saving the kitchen floor from becoming tracked with mud by the team. The stairs from the second story end in a square recess communicating with species, bisulphide of carbon, a chemical which can be purchased at any drug store, will be found effective. This substance can be placed in the nest by means of an oil can or small syringe. The quantity required varying from 1/2 ounce for a small nest to 2 or 3 ounces or more for a large one. An oil can with a long spout is a convenient instrument as it can be inserted into the nests and the liquid injected without its being brought close to the operator's nose, for the fumes of bisulphide of carbon though not poisonous, are nauseating. To facilitate the entrance into the nest of the chemical, the ant hole can be enlarged with a sharp stick or iron rod. After the bisulphide of carbon has been injected, the opening should be closed by pressure of the foot in order to retain the bisulphide. This will penetrate slowly throughout the underground channels of the nest and kill all the inmates. It is important to remember that while bisulphide is perfectly harmless if kept away from all fire, it is very inflammable and may, under certain circumstances, explode when ignited.

Except for the unsightly appearance of their nests, however, the lawn ants do no appreciable harm. They are frequently noted on roses and other ornamental and garden plants, and it is naturally supposed that they are doing harm to these. As a matter of fact, it is not the plants that attract the ants, but plant lice. These tiny creatures excrete a sweet liquid of which ants are very fond and which they collect without injuring the plant lice. For this reason plant lice are frequently termed "ant cows." The analogy is emphasized by the fact that ants have been known to take plant lice into their nests, shelter them through the winter, and return them to suitable plants in the spring, very much as men are accustomed to feed and shelter cows throughout the winter, putting them on pasture with the coming of the spring. This is the only way in which ants can be said to injure plants. They enter houses very rarely and, on the whole, may be said to do no harm of any kind except in so far as they lessen the attractiveness of the lawn. On the other hand, it is quite possible that by bringing up from the lower depths sand and earth they may distinctly increase fertility by forming a top dressing or soil mulch, and at the same time permit better aeration of the earth.

Where there is only a small area to be covered the simplest method is to drench the nests with boiling water. Another simple remedy is to spray the lawn with kerosene emulsion or with a very strong soap wash prepared by dissolving any common laundry soap in water at the rate of 1 pound or 1/2 pound to a gallon of water. Such methods are particularly well adapted to small lawns and for the ordinary little lawn ant.

GARDEN ANTS DO LITTLE HARM. Do Not Injure Plants And May Be Easily Controlled.

An unusual number of complaints have been received this year by the department of agriculture from persons who say that ants are injuring their lawns and gardens. As a matter of fact, these ants do little harm and the injury that is attributed to them is usually caused by something else. In large numbers, however, the small conical nests which they build on lawns are somewhat unsightly and on this account it may be desirable in some cases to destroy them.

the living room. Here is a good sized clothes closet. The opening may be masked with rope portiers, or left plain, as one's fancy may dictate. The arrangement of the second story is symmetrical, four bedrooms, 11x11.6, 12x11.6, 12x13 and 12x13 feet, being grouped around a large square central hall, the bathroom being opposite the head of the stairs. Just to the right of the bathroom door, but reached from the hall, is a linen closet. Each bedroom has windows on two sides, insuring comfort in the heated term, and each room has its own large clothes closet.

Section 1. Section one hundred and twenty of chapter fifty of the laws of nineteen hundred and nine, entitled "An act relating to the public lands, constituting chapter forty-six of the consolidated laws," as added by chapter one hundred and sixty-seven of the laws of nineteen hundred and thirteen, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 120. Jurisdiction and control. The land now held by the state of New York, and known as the Newtown Battlefield Reservation, in the town of Ashland, county of Chemung, acquired by the state during the years nineteen hundred and eleven and nineteen hundred and twelve, and hereafter acquired, shall be known as the Newtown Battlefield Reservation, and jurisdiction and control thereof is hereby transferred to the board of commissioners of the Newtown Battlefield Reservation, established by this article.

§ 2. Subdivision three of section one hundred and twenty-three of this chapter, as added by chapter one hundred and sixty-seven of the laws of nineteen hundred and thirteen, is hereby amended to read as follows:

3. Have the power to acquire for the state by condemnation or purchase such additional lands as such commission may deem necessary and for the acquisition of which appropriation has been made by the legislature.

§ 3. Money heretofore appropriated by section two of chapter one hundred and sixty-seven of the laws of nineteen hundred and thirteen and available for the acquisition of land and such other purposes as authorized by this and the original act.

§ 4. This act shall take effect immediately.

State of New York, Office of the Secretary of State, ss.

LAW OF NEW YORK—By Authority.

AN ACT to amend the personal property law, in relation to pledging merchandise and accounts receivable or other choses in action created by sale thereof.

Became a law April 13, 1915, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Section forty-three of chapter forty-five of the laws of nineteen hundred and nine, entitled "An act relating to personal property, constituting chapter forty-one of the consolidated laws," is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 43. Factors' act. 1. Every factor or other agent, entrusted with the possession of any bill of lading, custom-house permit, or warehouseman's receipt for the delivery of any merchandise, and every such factor or agent not having the documentary evidence of title, who shall be entrusted with the possession of any merchandise for the purpose of sale, or as a security for any advance, or for the purpose of any other disposition of such merchandise, shall be deemed to be the true owner thereof, so far as to give validity to any contract made by such agent with any other person, for the sale or disposition of the whole or any part of such merchandise and any account receivable or other chose in action created by sale or other disposition of such merchandise, for any money advanced, or negotiable instrument or other chose in action given by such other person upon the faith thereof.

2. Every person who shall hereafter accept or take any such merchandise and any account receivable or other chose in action created by sale or other disposition of such merchandise in deposit from any such agent, as a security for any antecedent debt or demand, shall not acquire thereby, and shall not be deemed to have obtained thereon, shall be deemed to be the true owner thereof, so far as to give validity to any contract made by such agent with any other person, for the sale or disposition of the whole or any part of such merchandise and any account receivable or other chose in action created by sale or other disposition of such merchandise, for any money advanced, or negotiable instrument or other chose in action given by such other person upon the faith thereof.

3. Nothing contained in the preceding subdivisions of this section shall be construed to prevent the true owner of such merchandise and any account receivable or other chose in action created by sale or other disposition of such merchandise, or upon satisfying such lien as may exist thereon in favor of the agent who may have deposited the same; nor from recovering any balance which may remain in the hands of the person with whom such merchandise and any account receivable or other chose in action created by sale or other disposition of such merchandise shall have been deposited, as the produce of the sale thereof, after satisfying the amount justly due to such person by reason of such deposit.

4. Nothing contained in this section shall authorize a common carrier, warehouseman, or other person to whom merchandise or other property may be committed for transportation or storage only, to sell or hypothecate the same.

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

State of New York, Office of the Secretary of State, ss.

FOUR R. F. D. ROUTES AFTER FIRST OF JULY

Kingston will have four rural free delivery routes starting the first of the month which will eliminate three post offices and two star routes. Route No. 1 was established in 1907, and routes No. 2 and 3 went into operation on June 17, while route No. 4 will start the first of the month. The three post offices eliminated are East Kingston, Marbletown and Sawkill. The two star routes eliminated are the Sawkill route that Mrs. Jesse Miller had and the star route to East Kingston run by George Mackey.

Kingston's first rural free delivery route was started in 1907 and is known as route No. 1. It was originally a route fifteen miles in length but since its establishment it has grown and is now twenty-four miles in length and runs from this city to Whiteport. The carrier is Ernest J. Ritch.

Route No. 2 was started the seventeenth of this month and runs from Kingston through Stony Hollow to a point near Zenn and also supplies Morgan Hill and the surrounding territory. The route is 24 miles in length and the present carrier is James W. Glennon.

Route No. 3, was also started June 17 of this year and runs from this city through Lucas turnpike to Van Etten's corner, thence to Hurley and along the state road to Marlborough and then to Lomontville and back through Hurley to this city. This route is 24 miles in length and the carrier is Lewis A. Lebert.

Route No. 4 will go into operation the first of the month and runs from Kingston through Flatbush avenue to East Kingston serving all of East Kingston down as far as Terry's brickyard, thence to Tuxen bridge crossing the bridge to Lake Katrine and coming back to Kingston. This route is 23 miles in length and will be served by Frank DuPon, a substitute rural carrier.

These carriers with the exception of Carrier Ritch are temporary carriers and an examination will be held in this city on July 10 for permanent carriers for these three routes.

The establishing of these three new routes will be of material advantage not only to the local merchants but to the residents along the routes who will be served by the carriers. The merchants will find it much cheaper to send their merchandise by parcel post than heretofore and the farmers along the route will be enabled to ship their produce to market much cheaper. For instance by rural free delivery it costs five cents a pound for a package with one cent for every two pounds more that the package may weigh. To illustrate by sending a fifty pound package by rural carrier on any of these routes will cost just 50 cents whether the package is sent from Kingston along the routes or whether the patrons along the route send the package to Kingston to be delivered direct to a customer. Before these routes were established if a farmer wished to ship fifty pounds of butter to a resident of this city he would have to go to his nearest post office and pay postage amounting to 54 cents on the package. Now by shipping the package by the carrier on the route it will cost him 30 cents to send the package to Kingston.

COTTEKILL, June 29.—Mrs. W. B. Frisby and children returned Friday to their home in Albany, after spending a few days with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Matlin.

Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Connors spent Saturday in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Gasley and daughter of Accord spent Sunday with Mrs. R. Walker.

Miss Vera Matlin, who has been attending Oneonta High School, is spending her vacation at her home here. Miss Matlin received a five dollar prize in physics for having had the highest standing in that subject during the year.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall and daughter spent Sunday at Accord.

Mr. Taylor of Port Ewen gave a very interesting talk in the Reformed Church Sunday evening.

Mrs. John Keator spent Monday in Kingston.

Don't forget the glorious 4th which is to be held in Cottekill on July 5.

Mr. Marshall Christiansa was in Walden Monday.

Mrs. Winnie and daughter of New York are visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Lock.

Mrs. E. Van Vleet of Kingston spent Sunday with her parents, Mrs. J. Van Vleet.

Innocence Rewarded.

"I hope," said Mrs. Cornsossel, "that you'll be careful not to take any counterfeits money while you're in town."

"I never bother about suspecting my fellow men," replied her husband. "If I study out a piece of counterfeit money it's impossible to offer it to anybody without my hand trembling, but if I pay no attention it's about as easy to pass it on the next fellow as it was to pass it on me."

LOWN WILL CONSTRUCT.

Surrogate Gill Decides Executrix Has Right to Sell Property.

Surrogate Gill has handed down a decision in the estate of James A. Lown of the town of Woodstock, in which application recently was made to him to construe part of the testator's will.

Real estate owned by Mr. Lown was advertised for sale by Margaret L. Lown, the administratrix, who was appointed to succeed Emma J. Longendyke, who had been the life tenant and executrix. Some of the heirs objected to the sale by the administratrix and preferred that the property should remain intact or that it should be sold under their direction.

The matter was heard recently, J. DePuy Hasbrouck appearing for Luella L. Eckert, James H. Longendyke and Nina L. German, three of the legatees. The administratrix and Lila Curtis, one of the legatees, were represented by George Van Etten.

Surrogate Gill holds that the administratrix has the right to proceed with the sale. His opinion is as follows:

This is an application to construe certain parts of the will of James A. Lown, deceased.

The testator's will was proved and letters testamentary issued to Emma J. Longendyke, the sole executrix named in the will, on January 26, 1915. She died March 14, 1915.

On March 16, 1915, letters of administration, c. t. a. were issued to Margaret L. Lown.

By his will the testator gave all his real estate to said Emma J. Longendyke for life and upon her death directed that the said real estate be sold at public auction, and the proceeds derived from the sale be equally divided between James H. Longendyke, Nina L. German, Luella Eckert and Lila Whipple.

Lila Whipple is now Lila Curtis.

Upon the death of the life tenant, Emma J. Longendyke, on March 14, 1915, the real estate became equitably converted into personalty.

Power to sell the same passed to the administratrix with the will annexed. Code, Section 2695; McGarry vs. McMahon, 124 A. D., 607.

The only way this power of sale can be extinguished is by the election of all the legatees to take the land in lieu of their respective shares in the proceeds thereof and notification to the representative of such election prior to the sale. Trask v. Sturges, 170 N. Y., 497.

The record does not show any such election in this matter.

I therefore decide upon this record that the administratrix, c. t. a., has the power to sell the real estate referred to in the will of James A. Lown, deceased.

Double Pay for Timber.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, June 29.—The conservation commission today received a check for $1,268.50 from Beede Brothers of Keene Valley because they inadvertently cut timber from state land while lumbering last winter near St. Huberts. The stumps were measured and it was found, after the firm had notified the state of their mistake, that exactly $634.25 worth of timber had been removed. Commissioner George D. Pratt notified the firm that as it was not an intentional trespass that the state would accept double damages if remittance was made at once. This was done.

FIGHTING THE CHINCH BUG.

Checking an Advance of Bugs in Wheat or Corn Field.

[Prepared by the United States department of agriculture.]

The seriousness of the devastations of the chinch bug varies greatly from year to year, chiefly on account of weather conditions. In some years the inroads made upon the wheat and corn crops have been very serious. If the fight against the pest is started late in winter or very early spring the burning of waste vegetation is recommended by the United States department of agriculture as the most satisfactory control. If the elimination of the chinch bug is delayed until harvest time some form of barrier is practical. It is said indeed that if it were not for an occasional season of heavy rains at the right time the chinch bug would make it altogether unprofitable to raise grain year after year on the same areas. Drenching rains during the hatching season always prove fatal to the young, and such wet periods are sufficiently frequent to keep the numbers of the pests within bounds.

The two forms of the chinch bug are known respectively as the long wing and the short wing. The short winged form occurs along the seacoast and inland along the lower lakes to northern Illinois. The long winged form is found all over the country east of the Rocky mountains and is especially abundant in the middle west, the section which suffers the most from the chinch bug.

The long winged chinch bug has two generations a year, while it is doubtful whether the short wing has one or two. The adult insects pass the winter under clumps of broomsedge, matted grass, leaves or in fact any convenient form of waste vegetation, from which they emerge in the spring to deposit their eggs in nearby grain fields. When the young hatch from the eggs they cluster upon the plants and begin at once to feed upon the juices. Shortly after midsummer this first generation have become adults and deposit their eggs in turn. When these eggs are hatched the young fasten on corn, millet, Kaffir and similar crops.

To control the pest, therefore, the department of agriculture recommends in the first place the cleaning up of all fence rows and roadsides and the burning during winter of grass and rubbish about the farm. This not only destroys large numbers of the bugs, but deprives them of shelter through the winter, so that where the work is thoroughly done comparatively few will survive to the breeding season. In the fall or spring green or wet grass will shelter a certain proportion of the bugs from the fire, so it is important that the burning be done in the early winter.

Where this precaution has been neglected or where the negligence of a neighbor has exposed a farmer to loss through no fault of his own, there may be about midsummer a great migration of the bugs from the wheat to the corn field. This presents another favorable opportunity to destroy the pests. Various kinds of barriers are in use to turn the invading army aside. One of the most satisfactory of these is said to be the coal tar line supplemented with post holes. The bugs will not cross the coal tar and, moving along the line of the barrier, fall or are crowded by other bugs into the post holes, where they can be killed at will. As the bugs mass along the line of coal tar they present an appearance not unlike a reddish brown stream running into the post holes. This method has been found thoroughly practical. It is important, however, especially in dusty weather, to keep the coal tar line fresh, for as soon as it is covered with dirt the bugs can pass over it without difficulty. If coal tar is not available petroleum or road oil may be substituted.

Another method is to plow a furrow around the field to be protected with a side so steep that the bugs cannot crawl out of it. In the case of showery weather, when the sides of the furrow cannot be kept loose and dry, the bottom can be cleaned out with a shovel, making the sides more perpendicular and the bottom smoother. The bugs will then follow along the bottom instead of trying to climb out of the furrow, and if holes are dug at intervals of thirty or forty feet the pests will fall into them and can then be killed by kerosene. The coal tar line is probably preferable to the furrow except in cases of exceptionally dry, windy weather.

McMULLEN AWARD.

Judge Hasbrouck Confirms the Report of the Commission.

Judge Hasbrouck has handed down a decision confirming the report of the Hon. Joseph M. Fowler, the Hon. John N. Vanderlyn and Senator Charles W. Walton, composing the commission appointed to try the claim of Moses McMullen against the village of Marlborough, for damages to his property resulting from the change of grade of Landing street in that village when the state road was constructed.

The commission awarded Mr. McMullen $1,500, and the village opposed confirmation of the report by Judge Hasbrouck on the ground that in awarding damages the commission had proceeded upon an erroneous theory of law. Judge Hasbrouck finds that the commission did not proceed on an erroneous theory and he therefore confirms the report. Arthur E. Rose was attorney for Mr. McMullen; Graham Witsch, chief of Newburgh was attorney for the village of Marlborough.

In his opinion, Judge Hasbrouck says:

The allegations in the complaint and the facts appearing in the evidence in the action were sufficient to bring the proceeding within subdivision two of section 158 of the village law. There was a change of grade. The plaintiff petitioner was damaged. Whether the injury was actually perpetrated upon the property owner by the state or by its agent, the village municipality can make little difference. One subdivision covers one case. The second another. But the law provides relief in either event to the property owner and the money for the damages is taken from the same exchequer. It seems to me that the village in securing a modification of the state's plan at Landing street so that it was changed from a 12 percent to a 10 percent grade and by paying therefor participated in and ratified the change of grade which aggravated the property owner. If under subdivision two of section 158 of the village law the village becomes responsible for any change of grade growing out of highway improvement undertaken by the state, and the appellate division of this department appears to have so held, McMullen vs. Village of Marlborough, 163 A. D., 73, no substantial injury to the defendant village would seem to have flowed from the procedure herein. The commission therefore has followed no wrong principle or theory and its award should be confirmed.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, June 29.—A race horse that was twice discarded by millionaire owners that was bought for $700 and shortly afterward won a $20,000 race—that's the story of Spriggen, the 2:08 1/4 trotter that furnished the surprise of the year by winning the big Panama Pacific trot in San Francisco earlier in the month.

Spriggen was something of an added starter in that race. His owners, confident that their horse had speed weren't sure that he had enough to figure as a contender in that race. But at the last moment they entered Spriggen and took a Brodie.

Some of the classiest trotters in the country were entered in that Panama Pacific race. Among them: Baby Doll, 2:10 1/4; Virginia Barnette, 2:08 1/4; McCloskey, 2:06 1/4; Leo Blossom, 2:10 1/2; John Mack, 2:12 1/4; Electric Patch, 2:09 1/4; Sam Pelipe, 2:09 1/4 and Kid Cupid, 2:08 3/4. Spriggen wasn't even considered for a place in this field, yet he romped home ahead of the field.

Spriggen is the five year unsexed son of Baron McKinney, 2:10 1/4 and Helen Simmons, 2:11 1/4. Spriggen has a pedigree that can be traced back almost to Noah's Ark.

Spriggen never has beaten the 2:10 mark yet he has consistently beaten horses with records under 2:10.

The irony of Spriggen's victory in the big California race, from the standpoint of the second millionaire who discarded him, is that Spriggen, in that race, beat the horse that the millionaire had spent months in grooming for that one big harness battle.

W. B. Dickerman, a millionaire sportsman, owned Spriggen as a yearling. He had him on his farm at Mamaroneck, N. Y. Spriggen didn't look like a "comer" in his colt days and Dickerman threw him in with a lot of horses that were disposed of at a bargain sale that was conducted in 1911. Charles Dean, of Palatine, Ill., acting for R. J. McKenzie, the Canadian millionaire and sportsman, looked over Spriggen and decided to purchase him.

"I came to my decision not because Spriggen was good but because of his pedigree," explained Dean. "I figured that a horse with breeding as good as Spriggen's ought to amount to something some day."

Spriggen was raced a little as a two year old. He showed fairly well. As a three year old he looked good but in no way wonderful. He was campaigned in California in 1914 and showed fair speed and great gameness but no one seemed eager to buy him. He was an ordinary trotter—that's all.

In the fall of 1914 McKenzie decided to cut down the size of his stable by selling some of his horses. He included Spriggen in the bunch and Spriggen brought only $700. He was purchased by George Lowery, acting for V. K. Dunne, of San Francisco.

The entry list for the $20,000 race opened last year. San Felipe, the crack trotter of the McKenzie stables was one of the early entries. Esperanza, Fleeta Dillon, Marie Murphy and other famous trotters later were entered.

"This Spriggen looks pretty good to me," said Lowery to Dunne, early in the spring. "What do you say to entering him in the big race?"

Doesn't look as if he had any chance," answered Dunne. "McKenzie sold him to us for $700 and kept San Felipe for this race. McKenzie certainly knows horses and it's a cinch that he wouldn't have let Spriggen go for $700 if he thought he was a speedy animal."

"That's logical—but mistakes often have been made in judging a horse," answered Lowery.

Later on Lowery and Dunne devoted much of their leisure to watching Spriggen. The more they watched him the better he looked.

"Let's enter him and take a chance," said Dunne finally. And so Spriggen was entered just as the entry lists closed.

And Spriggen, the castoff, won the $20,000 race.

Carnival Netted $1,000.

Central Hook and Ladder Company have settled all but one or two small accounts on their recent carnival and results now show that the company netted over $1,000 on the week. Although it was expected that a larger sum would be raised, this sum is larger than any of the recent carnivals have realized. The inclement weather of the week was influential in lowering the total amount of the proceeds.

GUARDING MEAT FROM HEAT.

Simple Precautions to Prevent Supplies From Spoiling.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, June 29.—A few simple precautions will aid the housewife in keeping meat untainted in hot weather. It is, of course, common knowledge that the higher the temperature, the quicker meat will spoil, but the family's supplies are not absolutely at the mercy of the thermometer. Ice and cleanliness are two great weapons of defense.

For many families a refrigerator is obviously out of the question, but it is perhaps better to have no refrigerator at all than a neglected one. Merely to wash it out occasionally does little good; it should be thoroughly scalded at frequent intervals, in particular the drain. This, if overlooked, is apt to harbor fungous growths, which may spread to the food. On one occasion a man applied to the department of agriculture because he had found that a joint of beef placed in his refrigerator had turned a peculiar bright red. Upon examination it was ascertained that the meat was covered with a peculiar fungous growth due entirely to the condition of the refrigerator. Growths of this kind do not always advertise themselves so prominently and there may be much evil in an ice box that the eye can not detect.

If the refrigerator drain is not thoroughly cleaned, moreover, it is likely to become choked, the water being dried off quickly enough and the little pools are left standing in the interior. Dampness is one of the conditions most favorable to bacterial growth. An ice box in this state will not protect food long. It is, in fact, a wise precaution to wipe the interior of a refrigerator every day with a dry cloth.

The temperature of the average refrigerator is higher than most persons suppose, and in fact the refrigerator holds where a regular supply of ice is not obtainable, a cool cellar, a spring house or the depths of a well may serve somewhat the same purpose. On farms where there is an ice house, the meat may be placed in some form of closed retainer and buried in the ice. In any event, the meat must be carefully screened from flies. The danger from infection from these pests has been pointed out many times, but familiarity breeds contempt and they still persist. The fly not only does the meat itself no good but it may readily deposit upon it some infection, which is carried in turn by the meat into the human system. Some flies will deposit their eggs on the meat and these in a short time will become maggots and the meat is "fly-blown."

Much sickness that is popularly ascribed to ptomaine poisoning or to bad food in general is really caused in some such way as this, the food, in itself perfectly wholesome, acting merely as a mechanical carrier for the "germs" which cause the trouble. Some of these sorts come from the human intestine and their presence is a sure indication that filth is present, even if the amount is too small to be seen. Filth of this kind may be carried by dust, but it more often comes from soiled hands. One might wish that every kitchen could have the sign found in some well-managed food factories—"When you leave the room for any purpose, wash your hands before you return to work."

"Germs" which grow in foods and cause illness grow very rapidly, particularly if the food is a little warm, and are not destroyed unless the food is well cooked before serving. Simply "warming up" is not enough, as was found in a case of illness recently reported after eating some warmed up creamed vegetables. Certain kinds of food—creamed chicken, or custard, or warm vegetables, for example—are excellent culture mediums for bacteria which may have been introduced into them by accident. For this reason it is a safe rule to have as short a time as possible intervene between the preparation of food and its consumption. Broth is another excellent medium and in consequence should be drained off if it is intended to keep the meat for any length of time before serving. If the broth is used also, it should be boiled thoroughly first. All food, cooked or uncooked, should be kept in a clean, cool place in order to reduce the danger of infection to a minimum.

When meat must for any reason be kept for unusually long periods of time or when the conditions are unusually unfavorable, scalding may be resorted to advantageously. Dropping the meat into boiling water for a few minutes will not seriously affect its flavor when it ultimately appears upon the table, and it will put it in a much better condition for keeping. It is important, however, that it be dipped in a large body of boiling water. If only a small amount of water is used, the introduction of the meat will lower the temperature, to such an extent that the whole process becomes worthless. With such meats as veal or pork, which are always—or ought to be—thoroughly done, the precaution can be carried further and the joints partially cooked before being stored away. Care should be taken, however, to see that the re-cooking is thoroughly done.

Hot weather also calls for additional precautions in regard to the housewife in regard to canned products. Once these have been opened and exposed to the air, they spoil as quickly—if not more quickly—than fresh food. The contents of a can should therefore be disposed of without delay. In no event should they be left in the can after it has been opened, but should be used at once unless the housekeeper wishes to use the canned material which some believe is desirable. If this is done, the can contents should be transferred to a clean earthen or glass dish and put away for an hour or two in a cool place where dust will not reach it.

A Sall to Poughkeepsie.

Are You Ready for the Fourth

Your pleasure and comfort will be wonderfully increased by careful preparation for the day's enjoyment. Let us help you. Come early in the week, if possible.

Time has tested the Kayser Silk Gloves, and experience has proved them to be the best silk glove made, yet they cost no more than the ordinary kinds. Look for "Kayser" in the hem; it insures maximum value for the price paid. A guarantee ticket with every pair, the price no higher than ordinary kinds, 50c, 75c and $1 pr.

The pretty Parasol not only adds very much to the personal appearance of the lady, but necessity calls for a substantial sun shade when "Old Sol" gets working full time, and not a leaf stirring during the long afternoon. Ours are not only pretty, but substantial, the well-known "Gam Bros." make. Plain or fancy silk ones for $1.97, $2.50, $2.97 and $3.50.

Wouldn't one or two of the pretty blouses be just splendid with your mid-summer outfit. So are very dressy, others plain, however are made of soft, delicate fabrics, featured in crepe de chine, voiles, wash silks and lawn, scores of pretty designs at 97c, $1.97, $2.97.

CHILDREN'S WHITE DRESSES.

You could scarcely buy the material for the price we ask for a pretty little dress all ready to wear. Better see these first at $2.25, $2.97, $3.97 to $6.97.

PRETTY BELTS AND BAGS.

Many new and attractive designs in leather and silk belts, special at 47c. Fancy hand bags to match at $2.25, $2.97, $3.97 to $1.47 and $1.97.

WHITE DRESS SKIRTS.

Have proven very popular this season. Many styles and modern prices help to sell them quick. You will find them not only stylish but serviceable. Prices 97c, $1.49c, $1.97, $2.25, $3.25 to $3.50.

Leaders in Underwear Values
